Overview

This guide is designed to help you identify the Proposal Type that best suits your proposal development submission. By using this resource, you can easily determine the most suitable classification for your submission.

Proposal Types

Field Name	Description
Budget – SOW Update	Select to modify an existing Budget or if the proposals SOW has changed.
Continuation (non-competing)	A non-competing continuation proposal that conveys the next budget increment* for a multiyear award, and such award does not result from a competitive peer review. *Note: The next budget increment may fall within the current budget period (where increments are issued more frequently than annually) or may fall in the next budget period.
New	A new proposal is a new project where the sponsor has not previously provided funding. Some sponsors, such as the National Science Foundation, may require the submission of a new proposal for an on-going project that must recompete for funding. In such situations, the sponsor usually issues a new award and new award number for the project.
New – Change/Corrected	Select to modify a new proposal (already approved) which requires changes or corrections to be resubmitted to the sponsor.
Other	This action code is only to be used when an proposal does not fit into one of the other categories noted above (i.e., a change in administering unit, change in PI, etc.).
Pre Proposal	Select when a sponsor requires the submission of a pre-proposal or letter of intent prior to the full proposal submission and is required to be reviewed by RED (i.e., pre-proposal or letter of intent must be submitted by the RED Officer and/or the submission requires a budget).
Renewal	A renewal proposal is a competitively reviewed proposal that requests additional funds to extend a project beyond the current project period/competitive segment.
Renewal – Changed/Corrected	Select to modify a renewal proposal (already approved) which requires changes or corrections to be resubmitted to the sponsor.
Resubmission	A resubmission proposal is a proposal that was not selected for funding by the sponsor that has been modified following initial review and is being resubmitted for consideration.
Resubmission – Changed/Corrected	Select to modify a Resubmission proposal (already approved) which requires changes or corrections to be resubmitted to the sponsor.
Supplement – Changed/Corrected	Select to modify a supplement/revision proposal (already approved) which requires changes or corrections to be resubmitted to the sponsor.
Supplement/Revision	A supplement/revision proposal is a proposal that requests additional funding to a currently funded award during an approved project period.
